- On site predator and human wildlife conflict research
- Unique Star-beds sleep out experience
- Rare animals such as brown hyena, leopard
- Our Wildlife Research Initiatives
- Our Community Involvement Initiatives
- Our Conservation Initiatives

Location

The central Tuli is a vast, wild landscape in excess of 70,000 hectares bordering the Northern Tuli. It is completely unfenced and is home to numerous species of fauna and flora, among them elephant, eland, brown and spotted hyena and bat eared fox to name but a few. Koro has become known for its phenomenal leopard sightings that go hand in hand with the research that is run from Koro Camps. The birdlife is magnificent along the majestic Limpopo river. The Tuli skyline is a spectacular mix of inslebergs or rocky outcrops, huge Candelabra trees and Giant Baobabs which have, in part given the area its local name "land of giants".

Access

By road - Koro is a mere 550kms from Oliver Tambo International. A high clearance vehicle can make it all the way to the boon gate, where we collect our guests. Alternatively we will meet and transfer you from Platjan border post, Mathathane police station or Lekkerpoet Junction to the camp. From Gaborone it is 550kms and from Polokwane it is 240kms.

By Air – When guests opt for a private charter, pick-ups are available from Limpopo Lipadi Airstrip and Limpopo Valley Airstrip.

Camp

Koro Island Camp offers an authentic safari experience, and it is ideal for explorer-orientated travellers. Here one feels close to the old ancient landscape, the flora and fauna, and the fresh breeze of the Limpopo River. The tents are very comfortable and all have en-suite open-air bathrooms which always catch the “out of Africa” imaginations. A suspension bridge welcomes safari goers into camp with sweeping views of the river. Our seasoned safari luxuries include a thatched lounge and dining area, a viewing deck overlooking the main channel of the Limpopo, and of course, the crucial open air campfire for dinner and storytelling.

Conservation & our Timbo Afrika Foundation

Conservation tourism is the core of all our operations and is very important to Albert Hartog, founder of The Africa Experience, Albert set up a foundation, Timbo Afrika to fund and support numerous conservation and community projects. At Koro, Timbo Afrika funds an accredited PhD level field study, focusing on the ecology of leopards and hyenas of the Tuli. This includes the highly endangered Kalahari icon, the brown hyena. Creating game corridors and the reintroduction of endangered species such as the Rhino and the Sable Antelope. We invite our guests to participate in monitoring activities and field observations. Our deep rooted philanthropic and conservation passion has created various community development programs. A 'bee barrier' project is underway to help alleviate elephant conflict with local farmers, and wildlife education programs are supported at the Mathathane primary school. Visits to village sites outside are highly recommended. All tourism profits go directly back to the foundation to be plowed back into the conservation of the area, its cultural heritage and its people.
